

9th September 2014

For immediate release

First Locate achieves ISO Standards in Quality (9001) and Information Security Management Systems (27001)

First Locate's Quality and Information Security Management Systems have successfully been certified by British Standards Institute for the provision of debt collection and trace services.

The achievement of the ISO 9001 standard demonstrates First Locate's commitment to ensuring client satisfaction, continuous process improvement, the development of our employees and ensuring an effective, straightforward process for our customers.

The certification means that clients and customers can continue to be confident they are dealing with a business that manages quality to meet their needs, saving them time and money, improving processes/performance and ensuring all business is completed compliantly.

The achievement of the ISO 27001 standard demonstrates that First Locate manages Information Security in a way which ensures confidentiality, integrity and accessibility of our data and shows a clear commitment to data protection, risk assessment and information assurance.

Our systems and controls have been independently assessed by the British Standards Institute which shows that data security is at the forefront of everything we do, potential security incidents are identified and mitigated and that clients and customers can be comfortable in their dealings with us.

Commenting on this significant news, Michael Court, 1st Locate's Group Sales Director, says, "We are committed to providing our clients with value added, market leading solutions that they can trust and by achieving both the 9001 and 27001 standards (within a time span of only 3 months) we hope that this provides further assurance of our dedication for excellence".

End